Robin Washington, Office Manager
PO Box 431
Jefferson, MD 21755-0431

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

On Friday, December 3rd, the Frederick County Chamber of Commerce and several County Commissioners held a ribbon cutting ceremony to welcome Sage Small Business Services into their new offices. Sage opened its door about 3 years ago with the President, Mary McCormack operating out of a 5' X 5' home office. The move was prompted by the need to accommodate a growing staff and desire to have a classroom available so that QuickBooks, Accounting and Business Fundamentals could be taught.

Sage held the ceremony at an Open House at their new offices in Jefferson, MD to promote their hands-on software training, bookkeeping and financial services. Ms. McCormack is enthusiastic about the services Sage can provide to the business communities of Maryland, Virginia and West Virginia. "We are returning to a marketplace powered by relationships – not by sheer inertia. You need a real working partnership with whoever assists you with day-to-day financial and bookkeeping tasks and those who prepare you to use the technology in your office. Sage is committed to helping individuals provide their companies with unparalleled expertise."

Sage employees Robin Washington and Amy Chase Martin, both formerly of Computrain, are the core of the software training division of Sage. Robin will be serving Sage as office manager and coordinating all software training and bookkeeping services. Amy is a Microsoft Certified Trainer who will be conducting software classes both at client sites and in the Sage classroom in Jefferson, MD. Sage's fullservice software training classes in Microsoft Word, Excel, PowerPoint, Access and QuickBooks are designed for individuals who are new to the computer or more seasoned computer users who are looking for tips on using their computers more efficiently.
